PRESIDENT'S REPORT Vance Rugaard (TN)

We are on the downhill side of what has been an “interesting” winter, to say the least. NASDTEC has kept its profile visible at the national level by having representation at several important meetings. In early December, Mike Carr joined a team from Kentucky and I went representing both Tennessee and NASDTEC to the World Language Teacher Certification Summit in Alexandria, VA. We made an effort to inform the participants about NASDTEC’s mission and our willingness to partner with their efforts to increase the supply of World Language Teachers. [World Language is the new, “politically correct” phrase for what we usually refer to as “foreign language”.]

Shortly after the first of January, Roy Einreinhofer and several of our state members from the west represented NASDTEC’s interests at the Western States Conference held in San Diego, CA. Although this is an independent conference, the western region of NASDTEC meets in conjunction with this gathering.

On January 26-29, 2010, the National Association for Alternative Certification (NAAC) held their annual meeting at the Red Rock Resort and Convention Center in Summerlin, NV. Ted Gillespie, the regional director from the Central Region of NASDTEC and I attended this meeting and again promoted the interests of NASDTEC within a national forum. As a result of that meeting, NAAC, NCTAF, and CCSSO have invited us to partner with them on an upcoming project.

The next Executive Board meeting will be held the end of February, 2010 in Nashville. The two major items for consideration are: 1) the developing search for a new Executive Director and 2) the re-authorization of the NASDTEC Interstate Agreement. The search for an Executive Director by the upcoming deadline of June 30, 2012 will cause the Board to study the entire staffing needs for the organization. This consideration may result in splitting the position, with one person focused on the advancement of the mission of the organization at the national level, with a supplementary staff position that may serve the role of meeting planner. There is much to be discussed and decided.

The economy continues to plague travel plans for state members. If any states have found creative ways to finance travel that will circumvent state travel restrictions, we would appreciate having you share them with the group. We are looking forward to the June Conference in Indianapolis, scheduled for June 13-16, 2010. We encourage associate members to come and join us at this important conference.

Vice President's Report George Maurer (IA)

The Southern Regional held its annual meeting in Nashville on January 29 and 30. Braving a formidable snow storm in Tennessee, representatives from five states along with representation from associate members as well, the group had a productive meeting. Among the topics discussed were: the election of the Southern Region Director in June, the upcoming NASDTEC Interstate Agreement approval process, alternative

It's hard to believe we are just a few months away from the June conference. As you review the conference agenda that appears later in this newsletter, I'm sure you will feel, as the conference development committee does, that we've been very fortunate and are very excited about the quality and expertise of the presenters that have agreed to participate. I believe we have an agenda that will address all aspects of what NASDTEC represents. I know with budgets as tight as they are, it may be difficult to secure funding for additional attendees, but I would encourage you to select this conference as the one to attend since it will address many of the national issues that you will need to work on during the Obama administration.

Also, the conference is at a great location (Indianapolis, IN). It has something for everyone and if you bring family there is an opportunity for shopping and a variety of restaurants for you to consider. NASDTEC conferences have always provided an opportunity to start or renew professional relationships, have fun and to expand your knowledge.

We look forward to seeing you in June in Indianapolis.

Southern Region Report Mike Carr (KY)

Southern Regional held its annual meeting in Nashville on January 29 and 30. Braving a formidable snow storm in Tennessee, representatives from five states along with representation from associate members as well, the group had a productive meeting. Among the topics discussed were: the election of the Southern Region Director in June, the upcoming NASDTEC Interstate Agreement approval process, alternative route changes in the region, educator misconduct issues, changes in technology, and preparation programs/testing. Roy Einreinhofer and Vance Rugaard gave comprehensive updates on the June conference, the proposed NASDTEC budget for the next two years, and the process for hiring a new executive director in future years. While travel restrictions and the weather situation did prevent more states from sending representative, all members there agreed that face-to-face meetings were most effective in having strong dialogue on the issues of interest, and they hope that this format may be continued.

Executive Director's Report Roy Einreinhofer

As we enter the second decade of the 2000s, NASDTEC can look back upon a history of achievement and solid work in many areas. But the new decade also offers an opportunity for the association to look ahead and to define the role it will play over the next decade. The Executive Board is working to define the role of the next Executive Director, and how NASDTEC will interface with other players on the national scene. This is an important step for the association and one in which we welcome input from the membership.

We hear much from the corporate world about “rebranding” or “reinventing” companies. It may not be as common in the association world, but the exercise of attempting to redefine the role of NASDTEC so that we may continue to be relevant in the world of education is an important step in revitalizing the membership. With many of our jurisdictional members reaching the age of retirement, we need to be sure that the goals and objectives of NASDTEC are clearly presented so that the new folks stepping into those jurisdictional leadership roles understand the reasons that being an active participant in NASDTEC is important to them and to their organizations.

Take some time to look around your organization. Are there folks who should be introduced to NASDTEC and what we stand for? With the current budget situation in most jurisdictions, this may not be the best time to try to get others involved, but we should all be planning for the time when budgets loosen up a bit, and when out-of-state travel is again permitted. Let's be sure that this next decade will be one of growth for NASDTEC. It's up to you.
